

Elana Jones earned her Bachelor of Arts in Architecture from the University of North Carolina at Charlotte in May 2024. This follows her summa cum laude graduation with an Associate of Science from Brunswick County Community College in 2020. As a graduate student pursuing a Master of Architecture at UNC Charlotte, she combines technical proficiency and creative thinking to tackle complex architectural challenges, including sustainable design and community engagement. During her undergraduate studies, Elana served as Vice President of the UNCC AIAS, where she successfully coordinated and executed engaging events for the David R. Ravin School of Architecture, developed innovative strategies to strengthen student community engagement, and provided critical support to the AIAS President in member communication and organizational coordination. Her skill set includes AutoCAD, Adobe Creative Suite, Enscape, fabrication, Revit, and Rhino, reflecting a comprehensive ability to integrate design innovation with technical expertise to deliver impactful architectural solutions.
